Easily exchange electronic business documents with your trading community

Leading companies are increasing the percentage of perfect orders and realizing tremendous cost savings by exchanging business documents with trading partners via EDI. Diverse trading partner capabilities and complicated, high-cost Value-Added Network (VAN) fees, however, can pose barriers to even greater success. Inovisworks™, the Inovis VAN, removes those barriers by providing practical, low-cost solutions that allow you to easily exchange mission-critical business documents with your trading partners—regardless of data format or network connectivity standards.

Whether your company is taking its first steps into EDI or XML, searching for an alternative provider with the latest capabilities or trying to meet the latest technology requirements of your trading partners, you can count on the Inovis VAN to meet your unique supply chain needs. With more than 20 years providing integrated solutions that improve supply chain communication, Inovis has a proven track record of delivering our customers' business documents with the highest availability, security and network performance that you have come to expect from a world-class Value-Added Network provider.

Connect to flexible, reliable communications

You connect and communicate your way, and your trading partners connect and communicate their way. The Inovis VAN does the rest, securely routing millions of business transactions between thousands of companies with ease—and allowing you to focus on your core capabilities.

The Inovis VAN easily supports a wide range of:

- Data formats: EDI, XML, RosettaNet, EDI-INT, flat file/proprietary
- Connectivity: Dial-up, frame relay, AS2, leased line, Internet
- Delivery: Store-and-forward mailbox, event-driven
- Transport: HTTP, FTP, SMTP
- Security: SSL, S/MIME, IPSEC, VPN, PGP

Ensure the integrity and safety of your critical supply chain information

Your transactions are secure on Inovisworks. Employing redundancy and fault tolerance around the periphery of all supporting applications ensures that connections may be completed using the connectivity method of your choice. Worldwide mirrored data centers and offsite data archiving further ensure that your transactions, and the mission-critical business documents they contain, are safeguarded against unforeseen catastrophic events.

Increase transaction lifecycle visibility

In today's fast-paced environment, speed to market is critical to your success. Interruptions to the flow of transactions across your supply chain can mean the difference between growing your business or writing down losses. Manual approaches to tracking whether critical documents have been received by your trading partners, however, are frequently labor- and time-intensive.

Inovisworks delivers automated, real-time notification that an EDI transaction was properly received, as well as instant notification of any exceptions. This increased visibility enables users to more effectively manage time-sensitive supply chain exceptions—

You can even request a solution to an issue you are experiencing and check the status of your request. It's easy. Just go to www.inovisworks.net to get an in-depth look at your trading community 24 hours a day, every day of the week.

Gain control of your supply chain communication costs

With the Inovis VAN, you can finally put complicated, high-cost VAN fees behind you by choosing from our flexible pricing programs designed to meet your business needs. Our popular trading partner-based pricing program allows you to pay one predictable, low-cost monthly fee based on the number of trading relationships you have. There are no burdensome usage-based fees to worry about—ever. As your transaction volumes grow, the cost of your established trading relationship remains the same. And, as your Inovisworks trading community grows, you save even more as the cost per trading relationship decreases. This is just one of the many flexible pricing structures Inovis has to offer.
